Let the People Know

That—

millions of them own the public utilities of this country—gas, electric light, power and railways.

Millions of men and women have invested their savings in the stocks and bonds of these companies, a greater number than has invested in any other class of securities, and this number of utilities investors is growing daily.

Thus the people are the big owners of one of the greatest growing industries there is, which through their official representatives, the people regulate and depend upon every day in the year for service they cannot do without.

Purely as a selfish matter, should not the people insist upon fair consideration and treatment of these utilities, free of prejudice and misrepresentation?
